

To John Bruce

12 July 43

My dear Sir

Besides the documents you and I saw with Sir F. Madden at the Museum, Rodd has a number of papers & deeds collaterally illustrating the ^{early} history of Shakespeare's Family.

It is material that these should be seen by you with reference to the volume for the Shakespeare Society which you and Sir F. Madden have kindly undertaken to superintend, and if you can make it convenient to support any morning, Radd, if not at home, will leave the documents out for us.

The sooner the better, as he is under some engagement to return the papers soon to the owner.

I am sorry that you sh^d have this trouble but it is for a good purpose. Perhaps you will write me a note about the day that will be most convenient, or least inconvenient, to you.

I took my chance of seeing you yesterday at the foumil, where we came to a final resolution to collect & publish "Transactions" as a receptacle for scattered information regarding our old Drama & Stage.

Influenza has been troubling me so much of late that I have hardly been able to put pen to paper.

Yours most sincerely Victoria Road I Pagnecollier

the day that will be convenient to both of us we must agree.

I am very anxious to see you for the day forward, when we can a final settlement & take last of this matter as a complete settlement in your office & I hope the same to be different from nothing as is usual that I have hardly all what I have to say I am sure of this

Yours truly
